Rockdale Medical Center Auxiliary
Makes Donation to RCPS
Assistive Technology Lending Library

Conyers, GA – The Rockdale Medical Center (RMC) Auxiliary donated $1,953 to the Rockdale County Public Schools Assistive Technology Lending Library for the purchase of software. “This gift will help us expand communication opportunities for our students and help our Speech Language Pathologists and Special Education Teachers to design language and vocabulary rich classrooms for our students with special needs,” said Katie Goldstein, MSPT, ATP, Assistive Technology Coordinator. “We will also be able to assess where a student is functioning in regards to alternative communication options, helping us to determine the right type of alternative communication methods for our students who are not yet verbal,” added Goldstein.

“The RMC Auxiliary was pleased to be able to make this donation to help these special needs children,” said Tom Scarborough, President of Rockdale Medical Center’s Auxiliary.

Not only do the RMC volunteers share their time, they are also committed to providing community outreach. “The limited funds raised through Auxiliary activities, such as jewelry and book sales, make it possible for us to help others,” Scarborough added.

Rockdale Medical Center is always in need of more volunteers to fill various positions throughout the hospital. If you have extra time and would like more information about volunteering, please call the RMC Auxiliary Office at 770-918-3007.
